

Wedding Bells

LEWIS — McFARLAND

At two o'clock on the afternoon of January 7th, the Irma United Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Marjorie Kate, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross McFarland of Irma, became the bride of Cpl. Herbert Lewis, R.C.A.M.C., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lewis, Holy Well, Wales.

Under a canopy of pink and white streamers and wedding bells flanked with vases of pink and white carnations, the ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. W. Ingles. Entering the church with her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a gown of white brocaded satin crepe, styled with a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and full train. Her train-length veil of fine net was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of calli lilies and red roses. Her only jewelry was a gold locket, gift of the groom.

Mrs. Lois Jack, cousin of the bride, as matron of honor, had chosen a floor-length dress of blue cut sheer, with this she wore a shoulder tip blue veil, caught with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Little Elaine Jack was flower girl and wore a long dress of white sheer and carried a bouquet of pink and white mums.

Ross McFarland, brother of the bride was best man, while Fred Jack and Pat Horn acted as ushers.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. R. B. Kirkman. During the signing of the register, Mrs. J. Fletcher sang "I Love You Truly."

Mrs. McFarland, mother of the bride wore a dress of brown French crepe with matching hat, corsage of yellow pink roses.

Mrs. J. Lambert, sister of the groom, was frocked in black with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The table was laid in white linen and centered by a three-tiered wedding cake set in tulle and rose buds and flanked by tall taper and roses of pink.

During the reception the bride's aunt, Mrs. Coppock, sang "Till Walk Beside You."

Telegrams of congratulations and best wishes were received from California, Scotland, Edmonton and Irma.

The toast to the bride was proposed by a life-long friend, Mr. Ross Eaton. As the bridegroom is a member of the armed services, a toast to the King was proposed by Albert Glasgow.

Cpl. and Mrs. Lewis left on the afternoon train for Edmonton. The bride's travelling costume was a grey tailored suit with black accessories, topped with a coat of muskrat fur. After March 1st, the happy couple will make their home at 5446 Coalbrook Ave., Montreal, Que.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McFarland, Calgary, Miss Irene Lambert, Mrs. R. Kasten, Mrs. J. Fletcher, Miss Marianne Winnochi, all of Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis McCaffery, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Tory of Wainwright and Mrs. O. J. Coppock, Castor, Alta.

Hockey

The Irma Hockey Club took to the road over the weekend with two sessions, going to Tofield on Saturday night and back to Holden on Monday night.

On Saturday night at Tofield, the boys managed to garner a single point by getting a tie with the local team, 3-3. The game was hard fought and clean with but one penalty in the whole three periods. Walker, Montjoy and Kirkman were the Irma scorers.

On Monday night the team managed to get a well deserved win over Holden on their ice. Although lagging 3-1 at the end of the first frame and 3-2 at the end of the second, they completely took over in the third stanza, the final score reading Irma 5, Holden 3. Irma scorers were Soneff, Walker, Glasgow, Ramsay and Symington.

Although no official figures are available at present, Irma is undoubtedly on top of the League with three wins and one tie in the first half of their schedule. The local gladiators also maintain that they are going to stay there with the moral support of Irma and district, so came on fans, attend all hockey games and "Boost Local Sport."

"Wednesday night is hockey night in Irma."

Irma vs Viking at Irma

Last Wednesday night the Irma sextet took the Viking Seniors for a ride by an 8 to 0 count.

Although Viking was considerably weakened by sickness, they fought until the last whistle was blown but were no match for the hard working Irmaites.

The first frame started as a great battle and it wasn't until fourteen minutes had elapsed that Glasgow managed to beat the Viking goal-tender on a rebound from Jones's attempt. The remainder of the period belonged mostly to Irma and before it ended, Jones tallied from Soneff, and McFarland got a marker from Montjoy. Only one penalty to Ramsay of Irma for tripping.

At the three minute mark of the second period, Ramsay made the stand out play of the game by taking a pass from Soneff and working his way past the defense to beat the goalie in professional style. After seven minutes of play McFarland got a goal from Symington to close the second frame scoring. One penalty was imposed on Viking in this period, to Hober for tripping.

In the third stanza, Ramsay got a goal from Kirkman and Glasgow and Montjoy got a reward for solo efforts bringing the final score to Irma 8, Viking 0.

A great deal of credit has to be given to the Viking goal tender, who was the busiest man on the ice and consistently was called upon to make almost impossible stops but coming through with flying colors to help keep the score within reach of his team mates. Haire, of the Viking team, also showed up very well and was the best playmaker on the ice. But in our eyes the hardest working, most effective player on the ice was Don Ramsay, who although of junior age, makes all the senior really go to keep in play with him. Soneff, another junior, is also showing up better each game, so come on Irma fans and watch these two kids make a tough racket look easy and at the same time, "Boost Local Sport."

The monthly meeting of the Irma Board of Trade will be held at Hedley's Hall, Irma at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, January 20th. This is an important meeting and all members and others interested in the welfare of the village and Community are asked to attend. The meeting will elect new officers for 1948 and transact other business over from our last meeting.

THE ROARIN' GAME

Summer days have passed away. With their wholesome outdoor play, But the winter has its pleasures known to fame, And its lengthened evening free, Call good sportsmen 'round the tee, For they like it, yes, they like it, The Roarin' Game.

Chorus:
A pair of rocks, a sweater, a mind from care set free,
The knack to throw the in or out with weight to reach the tee,
A broom to "soop 'er up" ye ken the skill to chap and lay,
Or draw a port, 'tis royal sport, the Roarin' Game to play.
Come and join the rink,
Business cares and worries sink,
Give your boyhood's self a chance to win a name,
Catch the spirit of the play, It will keep old age away,
For you'll like it, yes, you'll like it, The Roarin' Game.

Come and see our star so gay,
Show all corners how to play,
Come and see him standing proudly on the ice,
Watch him try to chap and lay,
And his rocks go sailing by,
For he missed it, yes, he missed it,
Mid shouts of glee.

An Important Task

MUCH HAS BEEN SAID IN THE PAST concerning Canada's role as interpreter in relations between Great Britain and the United States. Closely knit as we are to Britain by ties of empire, we are, at the same time, in a position to have a comprehensive knowledge of the problems and the outlook of our neighbors in the United States. During the war, methods of diplomacy, like many other of our established institutions, underwent changes, since leaders often found it necessary to disregard the usual procedures in carrying out business between nations, in order to save them in critical situations. There was some doubt then, as to whether diplomacy would regain its former importance in the settling of world affairs, but now it is apparent that there is still need for diplomatic dealings in international relations, and in this, as in many other things, Canada has assumed an increasingly important place since the war.

Important Task For Canada Now

Sir Shuldham Redfern, who recently returned to England after spending some years in Ottawa, has expressed the opinion in a recent article that Canada's greatest diplomatic task today lies in helping to maintain close ties of friendship between Great Britain and the United States, in view of the rising force of anti-democratic feeling in some parts of the world. The writer points out that it is of supreme importance to Canada at this time to do all she can to promote understanding between the two great Western democracies and to prevent the growth of any disunity between them. To successfully carry out this task will, he believes, require "all her resources of skill and understanding, all her machinery of conciliation, all her imagination, and the exercise of constant vigilance. Above all it will require inexhaustible patience."

Should Profit From Mistakes

Certainly, if we are to profit from the lessons of the past, we should know the importance of unity among friendly nations in unsettled times. Had the German leaders known that the small nations of Western Europe, Great Britain and the United States were all firmly resolved to take action together against aggression, the last war might not have begun. Even if it had taken place, events would have taken a very different course had there been prompt and powerful opposition such as could have come, had all the democratic countries been united in purpose at that time. Hitler very successfully proved the wisdom of the adage "divide and conquer," and the lesson of his early victories should not soon be forgotten. Agreement and unity of purpose between the great Western democracies could, without doubt, be a powerful factor in preserving world peace, and in helping to maintain that relationship Canada has an important and exacting task.

Truth and love are two of the most powerful things in the world; and when they both go together they cannot easily be withstood.—Cudworth.

Religious truth, though what points of it you will, has always to do with the being and government of God, and is, of course, illimitable in its reach.—Hitchcock.

Model Dairy Farm As Memorial To Soldier Son

SPOKANE.—A Spokane architect and his wife announced that they have started construction on a $100,000 model dairy farm at Chalfont, Wash., as a memorial to their only son, killed in action on Okinawa.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Rasque said profit from the 280-acre farm will be used to help worthy boys through high school and college. It will be equipped with modern machinery, a six-room house, a 14-by-80-foot barn, farm shop and shed and will be completed in two years.

"We planned this type of memorial to our son, George, because we thought this type of project could best perpetuate his memory," Rasque said.

The Turks regard green as a sacred color and for that reason its use is confined chiefly to prayer rugs.

This excellent chocolate cake may be baked in other ways. Nuts may be omitted and cake baked in three greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 25 minutes, or in two greased 12x12-inch pans at 350 deg. F. for 35 minutes.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

Visitor: "You've certainly got a lot of pep for a man who's over a hundred. How do you get that way?"
Oldest Inhabitant: "I ain't decided yet. I'm dickerin' with two or three cereal companies for my indorsement."

Husband—I passed Harris in the street yesterday, and he refused to recognize me. Thinks I'm not his equal, I guess.
Wife—Well, you certainly are his equal! He's nothing but a bluffer, brainless, conceited idiot!

Wife: "Do right and fear no man."
Husband: "Do not write and fear no woman."

A farmer's wife sold her surplus butter to a grocer in a nearby town. One morning the grocer remarked, "Your butter was underweight last week."

"Now, fancy that!" she replied. "Baby mislaid my weight that day, so I used the pound of sugar you sold me."

Foreman: "Don't you see that sign, 'No hands wanted'?"
Applicant: "I do, but I promised my wife I'd really ask for a job today, and that's why I applied."

"George," remarked a friend, enthusiastically, "that wife of yours is a remarkable woman—she certainly has a will of her own!"
"Yes," moaned George, "and let me tell you Harry, I'm the sole beneficiary."

A woman went to buy a drinking bowl for her dog and the shopkeeper asked if she would like one with the inscription: "For My Dog."

"It really doesn't matter," the woman replied. "My husband never drinks water and the dog can't read."

"She has gone through a lot for her belief."
"That so? What is her belief?"
"She believes she can wear a size 5 shoe on a size 7 foot."

Mrs. Brown was turning out her wardrobe and putting on one side things she had no further use for. "Would you like my last winter's hat, Mary?" she asked her child help.

"Oh, thank you, Mrs. Brown!" Mary answered. "That's the one my boy friend likes me in best."
Visitor (to Junior): "My, what a good boy you are, sitting there so quietly!"
Junior: "I always sit quietly until someone puts money in my bank and then I say 'Thank you.'"

John: "Have any of your childhood dreams been realized?"
Bill: "One of them. When my mother combed my hair I used to wish I didn't have any."

"What is your son going to be when he passes his final examination?"
"An old man."

In a tight-fisted congregation the hat was passed around on Sunday and returned absolutely empty.

The pastor cast his eyes heavenward and said, with a great deal of reverence, "I thank Thee, Oh Lord, that I got my hat back."

Report Shows Crime Increase In Canada

Drunken Driving, Theft, Assault Cases Swell Total To 24,613 In Latest Year

OTTAWA.—The cattle rustler is a fast-disappearing species on the Canadian crime scene, but the safe-cracker is on the increase.

This was revealed in the annual report of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, tabled in Commons by Commissioner S. T. Wood.

Official figures from the R.C.M.P. files show that a total of 24,613 cases—an increase of 6,391 over the year ending March 31, 1944—were tried in the Criminal Code section of Canadian law in the year ending March 31, 1947.

The higher figure for this year, the report said, came mainly from increases in breaking, entering, and theft; theft-general; assault-general; driving a car while intoxicated; robbery with violence; and arson.

The report added, however, that there had been a drop in cases of attempted murder and manslaughter—as well as a sharp decline in cattle-raiding. In 1944, 1044 were tried in the Criminal Code section of Canadian law in the year ending March 31, 1947.

The sharp notes of two R.C.M.P.-trained dogs—named "Teli" and "Ignatz"—smelled out two prairie criminals along with their $500-loot taken from a safe-cracking job in the pool elevator at Stranfer, Sask.

This was also revealed in the report.

When two suspicious men were reported about 20 miles from the robbery the dogs were taken to the area to pick up the scent. Within a few hours "Teli" had located both men—F. Baker and F. Johnson, both well-known criminals, according to the R.C.M.P.—hiding in patches of brush and long grass.

The second dog, "Ignatz," meanwhile had sniffed out an old stockpile where Baker had been hiding. The stock contained the $500 stolen cash, a bottle of explosive, and a detonator.

Baker received two years less a day and Johnson got a five-year sentence.

NOW WELL SUPPLIED

TORONTO.—It was like lightning striking the same place twice. Gordon Haughton waited a year and a half for his new motor car, and finally it was delivered. Then he won a new car in a lucky draw.

BEAT THIS? EXCUSE GOOD — and TALL

LOS ANGELES.—Mrs. Patricia Winman, explaining in court how she happened to be driving 54 miles an hour in a 20-mile zone, said: "My baby crawled down on the floor and pushed the accelerator."

The court complimented Mrs. Winman on the originality of her excuse, but fined her $25.

UNIVERSITY STUDENT TRAVELS GOLD TRAILS

VICTORIA.—A clarinet, typewriter and a 10-cent piece aren't exactly the most popular things to take on an Arctic expedition, but Phil Allan, young University of Alberta student took them, and made the trip pay.

In the last six months, Allan, who is resting in Vancouver, covered 6,000 miles of the Northwest Territories and the Yukon.

He still has the typewriter and the clarinet, but the 10-cent piece in his pocket is not the same one he started out with.

He was a band leader in Yellowknife, a deckhand on a Mackenzie River sternwheeler, a wood-chopper at Fort Yukon, a hod carrier in Dawson and a house painter in Whitehorse.

He paddled his canoe on the Arctic Ocean, was honored guest at a full-dress Indian wedding and saw the trail of '88 from the rugged Chilcot Pass.

"I wouldn't trade it for a bachelor of arts degree," Allan said. Complete with chest-long beard, Phil is visiting his grandparents here. Later he plans to write a book.

After that he said his typewriter, clarinet and 10-cent piece may go to the Orient with him.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

RIGHT TIME—RIGHT PLACE

By Ernie Rydberg

YOU know the guy—Sammy Tucker. Everybody knows him. In this morning's paper, for instance—in the movie section—I see his name listed in at least one of the pictures at every third theatre. It's on four marquee on Broadway this minute. Remember his publicity? "Clader Sam", they called him. Need I say that's masculine for Cinderella? A little hammy—yes. But it took a night even resent someone else calling it "ham". But it's okay for me. I'm the guy who thought it up. Sammy Tucker is the fellow who just happened along at the right time and at the right place. I see Lew Tucker, writer, thought up that part of it. The right time was 11 a.m. one morning a year ago. The right place was Henderson's Employment agency down at Long Beach. There's four of us—J. B. McGuire, Don Petty, Lew Waters and myself—sitting in a little glassed-in office. We're supposed to look like part of the business. We have a little deal with Mr. Henderson who sits outside and looks over job applications when they are filled out. If we see anybody who interests us, we give him the nod. She's to ask the person to wait, and then bring us the application.

We've been there an hour, J. B.—that's J. B. McGuire, crack producer at Superior, is chewing his cigar. Don Petty, J. B.'s pet writer, is smoking his pipe and looking out the window at the blue Pacific. Lew Waters, photographer, is smoking a cigarette and eyeing everyone who comes along. I can see that J. B.'s patience has about given out. Half a dozen times he's grumbled something about "the whole cock-eyed deal". But right at eleven in walks this young fellow.

He's tall, broad-shouldered, good looking. He's munching a big red apple. I see Lew Waters watching his every gait as he saunters up to the desk where a cute brunette passes out application blanks. We can't hear what he's saying, but he has a nice grin and the girl laughs.

Does he take his application blank over to the long tables and fill it out like everybody else does? He does not. He takes out a fountain pen, hangs his cap over the back of his chair, drapes his elbow on top of the PBX cabinet. As he writes, he eats his apple, carries on a conversation with the brunette who doesn't seem to mind at all—and also chats with the PBX operator who we can't see but who I remember was a nifty blonde. I see both J. B. and Lew Waters are looking him over. Petty puffs on his pipe and keeps looking out at the sea.

"He'll photograph," says Lew. "Freddie and all. Color's good. Teeth even. Y'd-o-kay for Technicolor."

"What do you think Don?" asks J. B.

"How's that?" says Petty with a start. "Oh, him? I just came along for the ride. You guys do the picking."

"Why I don't fire you for insolence is more than I can understand," says J. B., but Petty just chuckles. Everybody in town knows Petty doesn't give a hoot whether J. B. fires him or not. In fact, he sort of wishes he would. After 20 years with legitimate theatre work in the East, Petty is frank in telling the press or whoever will listen that the only reason he's in Hollywood is because he's weak. He can't turn down 2,000 a week. Everybody in town also knows that J. B. knows that nobody can touch Don Petty for turning out a scenario with a plot in it that's like pennies from heaven.

J. B. gives Mr. Henderson a nod, and presently she brings up the application. There are plenty of empty chairs, but this guy just stands there talking to the brunette and the PBX operator.

"I notice the dames are all giving him the once over," says Lew. "Let's see," says J. B. "Name—Sammy Tucker. Humm, not bad. Twenty-two. Six feet tall. 180. Let's talk to him," and he nods at Mr. Henderson again, and pretty soon she brings and introduces him.

"Hiya," he says. He chuckles his apple core in the wastebasket and sits down in the chair J. B. indicates, lighting a cigarette.

"I see you want a job as a chauffeur," says J. B. "Yes, Sir."

"Any experience?" "Well, I can drive a car—if that's what you mean. I'm pretty handy with a motor."

"Humm," says J. B., frowning at the application. I see Lew watching Tucker's hands. Lew says he can tell if a guy can act or not by his hands. Tucker's are large, but nicely shaped, and his nails are well kept.

"I see you're a flier. Why don't you get into aviation?" "Three years is enough," says Tucker, and you can tell he doesn't care to discuss it.

"Ever do any acting?" asks J. B. Tucker looks surprised. "Acting? Well, sure. In high school..."

"Can you sing?"

Tucker fixes his blue eyes on J. B. He stands up. "Listen, I came in to get a job—not for a rib. Sure, I can sing, but I don't see what that has to do with driving your hack," and he heads for the door. "Do-Re-Me-Fa-So-La-Ti-Do," he bursts out in clear voice. "Goodbye, gentlemen, and he opens the door to leave. Don Petty calls him back.

"Listen, this isn't a gag. Sit down."

"Okeh," says Sammy, and sits down. Fifteen minutes later the five of us are on our way to Hollywood.

Sammy gave tested that same afternoon. After dinner we ran them off, and at nine o'clock he departed with a seven-year contract. Don Petty collected a thousand-dollar wage from J. B., and I had the job of promoting Sammy.

It was a natural. A real Cinderella story. Within 24 hours, the columnist had all run something about Tucker. And the younger set over the country ate it up. Easiest picture job I'll ever hope to have. Magazines begging for stuff—his picture on the covers of four movie journals the month after his first picture release. Even now you're apt to pick up an article about how it all started.

It started the night before we discovered Sammy. In fact, about two o'clock that afternoon before J.B. called a big conference. He'd just purchased the rights of a best seller. It was a real bit of a story, and he wanted exactly the right male lead. The conference lasted over seven hours. At nine o'clock there were only three of us left—J. B., Don Petty and myself. The others had gone on home, leaving a lot of ash trays filled with cigar butts—and little else—to show for their efforts.

J. B. sat there at his desk, pawing through the script, chewing on his cigar. Petty was slouched down in his chair.

"This is all one big joke," says Petty. "This is a fine one to talk. This is the first time you've opened your kisser today. A big joke! I suppose you can do better."

"I could," said Petty, mildly. "You have a fine story. What you need a name actor for. I don't know. You need a moderately talented, reasonably presentable young man. I could go out on the street and find you a newcomer who could turn in a whole of a job. A little publicity, and you'd have a star on your hands."

"We all know what you think of Hollywood's methods," grunts J. B. "I'll bet you one thousand dollars, Petty returns. "And I'll just take your thousand dollars," yells McGuire. "I'm reasonably free tomorrow morning, and I can't think of a more pleasant way of making the extra money."

"Well, you know the rest. I thought I did, too. That is, until last Sunday when I played golf with Don. You're a publicity man," says Don. "Bet I know more about Sammy than you."

"For instance?"

"Well, that it isn't quite the Cinderella story it seems. I mean, the right place and the right time and all that guff you print."

"Go on," I say.

"A natural born actor! Yeah! You've heard of Tartarian?" "Of course. Who hasn't?"

"Well, I'll bet you don't know Sammy studied under Tartarian every night during his high school days. Dramatics—was the whole works. Not that I've known the boy since he was a baby. That he's planned on getting into the movies since he was too high. I didn't feel I could use my intelligence. After all, I could use what I think of relatives mixed up in this business. I wanted my nephew to do it on his own—even if I did go so far as to arrange the right time and the right place."

"Humm! The right time; the right place. And by chance, the right place. Now that Sammy's set, I'm racking my brain how to use this new talent. But I guess I'd better leave well enough alone."

CALGARY.—Amalgamation of the two large farmer-owned elevator systems—Prairie Wheat Pools and United Grain Growers Ltd., is proposed in a resolution passed by the Alberta wheat pool annual meeting.

EDMONTON.—The name of the faculty of applied science at the University of Alberta will be changed to faculty of engineering at the end of the present session, it was announced by the board of governors.

CRANBROOK, B.C.—Windermere Institute district has joined two other sections in East Kootenay in closure of crown range for a specific period to conserve available public range for beef cattle.

MOOSOMIN, Sask.—For the first time in its 55 years, Moosomin has elected a woman to the town council. Mrs. H. R. Sharp not only received that honor, but she also polled the second-largest number of votes.

MORDEN, Man.—The prairie provinces might soon have maple sugar bushes. At the Dominion Experimental Station, Morden, Man., a strain of sugar maple from northwest Minnesota is being tested with the hope of developing a sugar maple that will withstand prairie winters. Strangely enough, Canada's national emblem, the Maple Leaf, does not grow on the Canadian prairies.

FLIN FLON, Man.—Extension of northern Manitoba's Lynn Lake nickel-copper field 40 miles further west to the Saskatchewan border may result from a chance discovery of a new find which has led to a new outbreak of staking. The find was made by Ralph Gardvine, en route back to Flin Flon from winter fishing at Reindeer Lake, 200 miles north of Flin Flon. Location of the discovery is reported near Laurie Lake, due west of Granville Lake in the Lynn Lake area.

THE PAS, Man.—A trip to Chicago has been promised to the Queen of the Northern Manitoba Trappers Festival which is to be held in The Pas on January 22, 23 and 24. This was announced by Harry Skliov, chairman of the Prize Committee. A beautiful fur coat has already been promised to the successful candidate who will be chosen from representatives of the Northern Manitoba towns of Flin Flon, Sherbrooke, Churchill, The Pas and Swan River.

List Sent To Ottawa

Britain Ready With Many Manufactured Goods For Export

LONDON.—Britain will be able to supply about 100 manufactured articles, ranging from films to capital goods, in quantity to the export market in 1948.

The list has been sent to the British delegation at Ottawa which is seeking a readjustment of trade with Canada, and will be used by it in urging Canadians to buy more British goods as one means of balancing British purchases of Canadian food-stuffs.

All these goods are readily available for export.

The list, not before published, included:

Silk goods, linen, gloves, bedding, women's hats, wool cloth, shoes, carpets and rugs, china, fancy goods (toilet articles), glassware, jewellery, mirrors.

Pianos, musical instruments, ornamental brassware, toys, haberdashery and clothing accessories, fully fashioned stockings, knitwear, leather.

B.C. To Teach

Moderation Of Liquor

VANCOUVER.—The wisdom of moderation in liquor consumption is to be taught to British Columbia school children, beginning next term, Attorney-General Gordon Wismer said.

Speaking as acting minister of education, Mr. Wismer told a public meeting details of "the province's newly-authorized liquor moderation program and introduced Harold L. Campbell of Vancouver as its director.

He said "no quick results" could be expected from the program, which includes a summer school to operate next year for the education of teachers.

"As long as legislation does not favor prohibition...and the government is the selling and controlling agency, the government will consider itself responsible for education in its use."

Mr. Campbell said the program will be aimed largely at the young. "Through carefully-guided activity and discussion the student will progress to an understanding of the basic and scientific facts about alcohol."

KILLS LARGE COUGAR

CALGARY.—C. C. Jackson of Sundre, who has a registered trapline west of here in the Red Deer country, brought into the game branch office here one of the largest cougars on record. He shot it near the headwaters of the river. It measured 10 feet two inches from nose to tail-tip. The largest received previously was a nine foot, 11 inch specimen.

A child's definition of nervousness: Being in a hurry all over.

High Cost Of Pigs, Farmer Complains

KITCHENER, Ont.—Farmers who complain about the cost of feeding pigs will sympathize with Chester Rohr of nearby Conestogo—his porkers reduced his hamroll by $35 at a single sitting.

Rohr lost his wallet and remembered seeing it last while he worked in his piggery. He investigated, and promptly snatched a $10 bill from the outraged jaws of one of his prize sows.

Further investigation uncovered the wallet and about $5 more of its contents, which previously totalled $50.

The Speculative Wheat Agreement will have lost around 350 million dollars on account of the Speculative Wheat Agreement, on the average $1,400 loss to each prairie farmer. Farmers should
